Do You See the Elephant?

Sparks' circus is clean and interesting as ever, or more so. It deserves a good patronage.

Sparks' circus is one show that the ladies and children can go to with impunity. The parade Tuesday showed a long line of brand new equipment, fine horses, pretty women, a good menagerie and withal a "glittering line of march." The stunts by the educated lions, the strong men, the wire walkers and the ring and trapeze work were all good, while the good-natured clowns, the big elephants and the ponies furnished plenty of variety. Ten-Hour Sojourn in the Mud and Rain.

Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock during a heavy rain, half way between here and Winston on that terrible stretch of Davidson county mud, the editor's automobile came to a stop and it staid at the same spot until 2:30 the next morning when assistance finally arrived from High Point and two Ford automobiles pulled it in after a hard tussle and many stops, arriving in High Point at 4 o'clock in the morning. Everything about the car appeared alright but the engine could not make the wheels move, they were paralyzed apparently and although we sweated and coaxed, still they refused to talk back or forward for that matter. Imagine for one moment a car containing seven people, four of whom were children and one sick, housed in an auto for ten long hours, most of the time raining, dark as pitch, mud knee deep, no one passing, a house not near, and the rain soaking half of the occupants, notwithstanding the curtains, and then being exposed to the raw air, wet and cold to the skin, and you have a faint idea of what automobile life is when things go wrong like they did Sunday night. We could bear the torture a little better if we knew just why the hind wheels would not revolve and push the front ones on that fateful Sunday night!!! Talk about mud--we carried enough off on our shoes and clothes to fill a peck measure!

We are under many obligations to Mr. R. A. Bodenhamer, at Union Cross, for hospitality a short while Sunday night while nursing a crippled automobile.

DOGS ATTRACT ATTENTION.

Of much interest to visitors at the station Sunday evening was a large crate containing two German police dogs, they having been imported by John Armstrong from the kaiser's land. The dogs were somewhat larger than a Russian wolfhound with a greater amount of intelligence. Mr. Armstrong says that either of the two can easily climb a 29 foot fence and that with a running start could go higher. Mr. Armstrong had considerable trouble with the dogs at first as it seems that they understood very little English. R. N. Mitchell says that they responded readily to commands spoken in German. The pair left on No. 28 for Washington, D. C., where they will be entered in the dog show.

The Street Railway Injunction.

There were only two arguments submitted before Judge C. C. Lyon Monday afternoon in the case entitled J. A. Turner and wife, Fannie A. Turner, against the City of High Point, North Carolina Public Service Company and Carolina and Yadkin River Railway Company. A B. Kimball presented the first argument, on behalf of the plaintiff, contending that the extension of the street railway system in High Point by the Public Service Company for the purpose of affording freight traffic service between the terminal of the C. and Y. R. Railway and the various manufacturing plants of the city would be converting these thoroughfares to a purpose not intended and not compatible with public policy. He asked, therefore, that the order restraining the defendants from further work on this extension be made permanent. He was answered by A. L. Brooks, of counsel for the defense, who contended that such an extension is in line with the very best public policy for the city of High Point, and that the use of the streets for freight traffic, in the manner proposed by the Public Service Company, is entirely within the bounds of restriction for the use of public thoroughfares of the city.

Injunction Dissolved.

Judge Lyon yesterday dissolved the injunction against High Point, the Carolina & Yadkin River Railroad and the North Carolina Public Service Co., and the plans inaugurated will be carried out to the advantage of the city's business interests and with no harm to no one.

Refuses Wilcox a Pardon.

Raleigh, Apr. 12.--Governor Craig this evening declined to pardon Jim Wilcox in the face of an overwhelming appeal for clemency for the slaying of Nellie Cropsy, a petition opposed by the girl's mother alone. Governor Craig reviews the case in several typewritten pages and gives the reason for refusal against such importunities as have come to him. The chief reason is that he believes Wilcox guilty and the jury as kind to him as it had a right to be. [The governor did exactly right according to our belief. It was a most brutal murder.--Editor.]
